

MERELY COMMENT

Mayor Harrison declares he favors the recall of all public officials.

If Harrison only knew how he has made many citizens of Chicago favor the recall also!

Some 40,000 Bulgars and Serbs having been killed in the last ten days' fighting, Bulgaria and Servia have broken off diplomatic relations.

Reminds us of husband we knew; used to profanely break off diplomatic relations with his wife—two seconds after he got out of her sight and hearing after being beamed by her.

Biting into a golf ball is at least a sure way of finding out whether or not the acid in the core is poisonous.

More than the garbage smells in Chicago's far-famed "garbage problems."

The smelling salts! The Guggenheim divorce case is in again!

"Away with subway mysteries," valiantly cries the esteemed Journal.

But what would we have left of the "subway problem" we wrestle with then, Jawn?

Welcome to the Butts resolution; another little resolution can't do us any harm.

Which reminds us: Jim Watson is right smart indignant over Col. Mulhall saying he drank six cocktails.

Possibly it was worth considerable money to be a friend to Sir John Murray Scott—anyhow to Lady Sackville.

Three burglars held up Italian army officer in barracks at Castrogiovanni, Sicily, and took from him the regiment's pay money.

We don't know what this is a sign of, unless it is one of the reasons why tourists avoid Sicily.

Now if the VISIBLE government will only get a wiggle on it—

It does not appear in the newspaper reports that Mayor Harrison took part in the Dunne-Lewis conference about federal patronage. Neither did Andy Lawrence.

By the way, wonder if Andy Lawrence is going to give State's Attorney Hoyne a vacation this summer? Or is Hoyne going to wait and take a long one at the end of his first term?

There's entirely too much investigation of Big Business nowadays to suit reactionary old Herm Kohlsaat; and The Inter-Ocean has a daily pain in the stomach.

Judging from the frantic pulmotoring going on, The Examiner's circulation must be in a bad way. Anyhow that coupon-peddling game is an indication of desperation.

The interesting question about that voting machine deal is—who got the $942,500?

SO IT WOULD, TOO

He helped her in her hobbled skirt.

They were to see a drama new. "Don't laugh or cough," her husband said.

"It will be all off with you."

In adults the brain weight is usually 1-30 to 1-44 of that of the entire body. A dwarf who died at the age of 65 weighed 45 pounds, and was found to have a brain of 1-19 of that weight.
